It is generally considered that a more youthful appearance is stained when such additions are emitted—a large land of hair filling in the vacant space, perfectly. However, this is marrly a matter of personal appreciation; milliners are rether prone to fasser hats trimmed at the back—perhaps because they show off batter in the hand. Note: Indian Territory Medical Association passed the above Tonkers Statesman. MODERN 'WIG-WEARING.

There are not many ways in which women have a marked dvantage over men, but the conditions for them are do, the wig age. At the halfways sta-tion they are to be-pitted. A slightly bald head is a distinction for a man, while-well, it is a condition in a woman not to be considered. But when it is necessary to obtain a wig the long hair worn by the woman which is massed in soft, fluffy ways around her face conceals the point of connection, she can wear her hairhers by purchase, if not by birth—in as many styles as she likes and no one need be the wiser as to how she came by it, mys the New York Times.

With a man it is different, and if he does not show to the interested public a head of hair which actually grows he is not in a position to conceal the fact that his head covering is an in-vestment. It is this artificial hair growing which makes a man's outlay colors are more costly than others, and a fine quality costs more than an inferior, but that is equally true with hair put into the man's wig.

There is a prominent New York man one well known in state; slitics, who has worn a wig for many years, and probably not one of his most intimate THE KANSAS CITY STAR, - KANSAS CITY, MO. friends who have not been informed of the fact knows it. Wigs are so well made now that there would be but little danger of discovery except for the permanent style of the ordinary worn by the ordinary man. Every hair lies always in exactly the same position, it is combed in the same way, and is always the same length. But that is not the wig of the statesman.

To give the growing effect he wears a succession of wigs. When he comes apparently from the hands of the haircutter he is wearing a wig fresh from the hairdresser. This has a close cut, and seems to be exactly what it looks. As the days go by the hair grows gradually-that is, one wig is exchanged for another and then another, until, as the time goes on, the politician re-marks that it is the day for another hair cut, reverts again to the first wig of the series, which has again been put in first-class condition by the wigmaker, and the deception begins anew.

INDIAN MEDICINE MEN.

ion! Scientists.

Ernest Thompson-Seton was talking about the Indian medicine man the other day, says the New York Times.

"Did you ever notice," said he, "that the Indian doctor's two prime reme dies are to-day the prime remedies of the most advanced medical science also? They are massage and the vapor bath. The early explorers all ridiculed these two features of the medicin man's treatment as much as they did any of the rest; but enlightened physicians have adopted them now. course, the medicine men practiced all sorts of fraud and deception. But they were shrewd judges of character, and that was the reason of their holding the positions they did. Here is an example of it:

his tepee. The medicine man retired three spots of blood on this side the blade, three on the other side. I wipe off the blood; this side is clean, this side is clean. I put the knife behind me, so, in the council fire. Each man shall stand in turn. When the blood spots come back on the blade, that man will be the guilty one.

"Storm Cloud, stand up. No blood comes on the blade. Storm Cloud, eit down; you are not guilty." "'Blue Buffalo, stand up. No blood comes on the blade. Blue Buffalo, sit down; you are not guilty."

"'Lame Dog, stand up. See the blood comes back on the blade. Lame Dog is "Confronted by this supernatural proof of his guilt, Lame Dog broke down and confessed, and was thus brought to justice through shrewd judgment and a simple trick of sleight of hand."

caller.

"No," replied the maid, who had heard a term that she did not quite understand; "she's tesing off somewhere." "Tesing-off," repeated the caller.

'You mean she's at the gold links." "No, I don't. I mean the agone off to ten party somewhere." - Chicago Posts
